Sorry About My Friend:

Two Girls, One Improbable Friendship

Los Angeles, CA, May 1, 2019. Sorry About My Friend is making its premiere run at this year's Hollywood Fringe Festival. Inspired by true events, the play follows the journey of college students, Danielle and Katie, through their explosive years as roommates in a small Texas town from 2006-2010. This quirky odd couple, with perfectionist Katie and wild child Danielle, learn even a fast friendship has its hiccups. A dramedy in eight vignettes, clocking in at an hour, Sorry About My Friend visits the fall and spring semesters of each year of college. It opens June 10th at Stephanie Feury Studio Theatre – 5636 Melrose Avenue, Los Angeles, CA 90038.

In the era of female empowerment, come celebrate the complicated beauty and power of female friendship. Obsessive Katie plays by the rules while wisecracking Courtney writes her own rulebook. Will the girls' differences build a bond like Thelma and Louise or burn down a city like Joan and Bette?

Directed by: Kassidy Cook; Written by: Rachel Scott and Xan Herring; Starring: Rachel Scott as Katie and Kelsey Griswold as Danielle
