After a very successful inaugural season, Firefly Theatre Group is rounding out their year with Adam David Green's devastatingly beautiful adaptation of Louisa May Alcott's Little Women. Since their inception in late 2018, Firefly Theatre Group has endeavored to foster a home for creatives filled with ambition, experimentation, and fun. It is their mission to offer a safe place where artists can play, collaborate, and produce relevant, thought provoking pieces.

Set in the tumultuous final years of the 1960s, this retelling of Louisa May Alcott's classic explores the very limits of sisterhood and family. Can the March sisters stay together when their father returns, wounded, from Vietnam? Will Jo choose love or a career as a writer? Will Beth ever again play the music she was born to make? This is Little Women as it has never been seen before: at a cross-roads in American history: vibrant, dangerous, and alive!
