

Donald Margulies' "Sight Unseen" at the Avery Schreiber Playhouse in North Hollywood

North Hollywood, CA Release Date: For Immediate Release.

The 1992 Obie Award Winning play "Sight Unseen" will have a 3 week run in October in the NoHo Arts District. The story of an American mega-artist so successful he's had the obligatory profile in Vanity Fair and can claim astronomical prices for his works sight unseen from a waiting list of wealthy patrons. In England, for a retrospective of his paintings, the artist goes into the countryside to visit his original muse and lover whom he abandoned in his quest for the opulent life which now devours him. In taut scenes that dart from past to present and back, the characters are forced to deal with the unanswerable question of anti-Semitism, the legacy of the Holocaust and assimilation, the sadness of lost love, the role of the artist and the location of the human soul at the end of a ragged century.

"Sight Unseen" features Adam Wasser, Jodi Dennithorne, Breon Bliss and Holly McKee-Clark. The play is directed by Erin Lann.
