Los Angeles Convention Center
South Hall

Los Angeles, CA (November 24, 2021) - The LA Art Show, the most comprehensive international contemporary art show in America, is excited to be returning to the LA Convention Center with new and exciting programming just 6 months after their last event. This kick-off to the city's 2022 art season makes a triumphant return to its traditional January event dates with a special focus on environmental programming.

2022 sees the highly anticipated DIVERSEartLA returning with a new ecological lens. Curated by Marisa Caichiolo, this year's edition will examine not just how the environment is represented in art, but how humanity's place in the world is depicted. This exhibition will open up an important dialogue about the Earth's past, present, and future, uniting the community around discussions of the global climate crisis and potential solutions. This topic is already at the heart of a growing number of art narratives and DIVERSEartLA is honored to provide it with an additional platform.

"I am so honored to be once again bringing the art community together in Los Angeles, both with local participants and an international presence. With a focus on the global effects of humankind on the planet, it is the right time to be curating voices from around the world, and I am excited to facilitate this wonderful event," says Kassandra Voyaigis, Director of the LA Art Show.
